

How can you do the most good?

The Humane Society of the United States (HSUS) solicits funds for helping animals but uses only 1/2 of one percent for that purpose!

It's like this; every time a donor sends $10.00 to HSUS, ONLY $0.05, one nickel, of that ten dollar bill is used to help animals. So, if you took a quarter ($0.25) and gave it to your local shelter you would actually do five (5) times as much good for the animals as if you had given that $10.00 to HSUS. Hey, and by the way, you would have $9.75 left to put back in YOUR OWN pocket.

Now, doesn't that sound like a better way to help animals than to give your hard earned money to an organization that will squander it?
